The owners and management of Mollies know how to make a great impression. The attention to detail is carried throughout the hotel from the discreet signage in the hedgerow, to the reception, public rooms to the bedroom and bathroom.

All of the staff are very friendly and helpful. We had one of the smaller rooms – still big though. We had a beautiful double bed and a sofa for relaxing on. We both took turns in sitting reading on the sofa with a lovely breeze coming from our balcony. The bathroom had a wonderful walk-in shower. It has to be one of the biggest I have ever been in. There was also a spa bath but I ran out of time and never got a chance to use this. Molton Brown toiletries are used throughout the hotel

After a day of wandering around Auckland I returned to the hotel and booked a Luxurious Spa Massage which was an hour of absolute bliss and I would recommend the treatment to everyone.

Before dinner the guests are invited down to the lounge for drinks and a little operatic entertainment. Most of the waiting staff are also opera singers. It was a wonderful experience and really added to the magical feel of the hotel.

Dinner was to a very high standard (5 courses but we only managed 3). With every course the waiter explained exactly what you were being served. Here, as everywhere else, there is attention to detail. Whilst we were at dinner, not only was our bed being turned down but our room was tidied with clothes hung up.

I have never stayed anywhere so luxurious and special before. We both loved the hotel and wanted to stay for longer. The bed linen is beautifully embroidered and a mohair blanket on the bed.

There are two resident Burmese cats who wander around and are always on the look out for a willing lap to sit in and be petted.
